COMPOSIZIONE

CLY: Lyocell

Il Lyocell è un tipo di fibra tessile ottenuta dalla cellulosa del legno, in particolare dell'eucalipto, ed è considerata una fibra semi-sintetica. La fibra Lyocell viene prodotta attraverso un processo di trasformazione della cellulosa del legno che è considerato più ecologico e meno inquinante rispetto alla produzione di altre fibre artificiali come la viscosa.

CO: Cotone

Il cotone è una fibra naturale di origine vegetale, derivante dalla pianta di cotone.

PTT: Politrimetilene Tereftalato

Il PTT (Poli-trimetilene Tereftalato) è un poliestere aromatico, simile al poliestere ma con alcune caratteristiche aggiuntive. Le fibre PTT offrono una buona combinazione delle caratteristiche del nylon e del poliestere, con una maggiore elasticità e una migliore gestione dell'umidità rispetto al poliestere tradizionale.

RY: Rayon

Il Rayon è una fibra tessile semi-artificiale che si ottiene a partire da un elemento naturale, la cellulosa, tramite elaborazioni chimiche.

VI: Viscosa

La viscosa è una fibra di cellulosa rigenerata ottenuta attraverso un processo chimico. Viene utilizzata per la produzione di filati e tessuti, apprezzati per la loro morbidezza e caduta.
